TRUSTEES' REPORT.

The Trustees herein present their forty-first annual report: this gives in detail the receipts and expenditures for the past year. The reports of the sub-committees, herewith submitted, point out the work done in advancing the aims of the Institute, and suggestions are also made for some changes in the future.

For the past few years, owing to a decrease of income, the appropriations to the Lyceum and Library Committee have been somewhat curtailed, but this enforced economy has in no way detracted from the efficiency of the Institute; a closer scrutiny is exercised in selecting books for the library, and the sums expended for lectures have been less than were paid for the concert courses, and we believe this change in character of the Lyceum is more in accordance with the spirit of its founder.

This season the Lyceum Committee has given us a most excellent course, the lecturers being among the first in their calling, and their subjects have been interesting and instructive; increased and appreciative audiences have been the result.

It has been suggested that a few lectures on purely scientific and technical subjects could be advantageously introduced in a course, as, no doubt, there is a class in our community who are interested in the subject of economics.

The past year, at an expense of about seventeen hundred dollars ($1700,) a most excellent reading room has been provided by the Trustees. This subject had been agitated for several years, but many of the Trustees could not see the way clear to recommend a plan that would not involve a large expenditure of money, but a committee was appointed consisting of Rufus H. Brown, F. C. Merrill and P. H. O'Connor, to have plans and estimates made for the construction of a reading room, the plans were accepted and an appropriation made, the room is now completed and has been in use for several months; we think this committee used excellent judgment in every detail, and we now have a reading room adequate for many years to come.

We would suggest to the Lyceum and Library Committee that steps be taken to keep the reading room open several evenings in the week, until 9 o'clock, and Sundays, at such hours as they may deem advisable; this would call for only a moderate increase in help and running expenses of the Institute, and as we have income sufficient for this improvement without encroaching upon the other demands, we hope the committee will give this subject prompt consideration.

The employees have attended to their duties in a manner acceptable to the Trustees, and the young men who are fortunate in obtaining situations in the library, cannot fail to receive great benefits by being in contact with its educational influences.

H. F. WALKER,

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF PEABODY INSTITUTE :

In accordance with prescribed custom, the reports of the various departments of the institution are respectfully submitted for the consideration of your board.

It will be seen from the Librarian's report that the circulation of books has maintained a satisfactory average in spite of the long time during which the library was closed. The per centage of fiction is remarkably low, and a taste for more substantial mental diet is manifest. The Library Committee have exercised a close and faithful scrutiny of all the new books added to the library, and have had a full sense of the importance of the duties they are selected to perform.

The executive work of the library has been very thorough. The books are kept in good condition, and there is a notable absence of defaced volumes or torn bindings. Some years ago, writing and marking in books was a source of annoyance and irritation. To-day no such evil exists, and whether the culprits were silly pedants or ill-conditioned boys, their practices no longer torment the reader.

The new reading room has been in successful operation, and adds much to the comfort of the visitors and patrons of the library. The committee in whose charge the project was planned and completed, deserve the thanks of the reading community. The changes in the library room give opportunity for compact and systematic work in delivery.

The lectures have been well attended, and with the changed conditions, have been as successful as the ordinary lectures of to-day.

The Eben Dale Sutton Library has had during the year many accessions of rare and unusual interest. The committee has shown commendable judgment in the selection of new books. It is earnestly hoped that the reading public will manifest a more lively interest in this department of the Institute. The treasures therein contained are open to all, and the old world and the new have added to its wealth.

THOMAS CARROLL,

Chairman.

PEABODY, Feb. 10, 1893.

LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE:

The Committee for the Peabody Library respectfully submit the following report for the year ending Feb. 1, 1893.

In the reports of this Committee for several years, attention has been called to the necessity of providing a larger and better Reading Room for the use of the patrons of the Library. During the year just past this long contemplated and most desirable improvement has been made under the supervision of a Committee of the Trustees.

By utilizing the old Committee room and adding to it about 14 feet taken from the main library room, a large and well proportioned apartment has been obtained, 36 feet long and about 19 feet wide.

This has been fitted with shelves for the reception of the books of reference and magazines, and provided with ample tables and comfortable chairs. In the day time it is, through the faulty construction of the building, somewhat deficient in light. When illuminated in the evening by the gas jets with which it is liberally supplied, it presents a most cheerful and inviting appearance and is in every way attractive.

A librarian's room has also been constructed, 14 feet by 10 1-2, by taking further space from the main library room. This fills a long felt and most pressing want. In addition to these changes, the front door of the Institute building has been opened for the use of those who visit the library. Large lights have been placed in this door, and in those communicating with the Reading Room and Library and add greatly to the attractiveness of the whole interior. The work upon these alterations was begun on the 16th of April, 1892. After a short time it was found to be necessary to close the Library, and this was done on the 11th of May. On the 18th of July the work had been completed and the Library was reopened on that date.

To accommodate the books taken from the space occupied by the encroachments upon the Library, two new V alcoves were built and set up in line with those already upon the easterly side of the room. These will carry about 6000 volumes and provide ample shelf room for the growth of the Library for some time to come. They have also relieved the crowded condition of the shelves in some departments.

A modern and very convenient delivery desk has also been provided.

By all these improvements and additions a long step forward has been taken in modernizing and utilizing the facilities the Library offers, and the year 1892 may well be marked with a red letter in our calendar.

Taking into account the fact that the Library was closed for nearly ten weeks and practically inaccessible, for two or three more, the falling off in the circulation of books for the year was not so large as might have been expected. The total for the year ending Feb. 1, 1893 was 27,786 a loss of 7,144 as compared with the year before, or a little more than 20 per cent. It is interesting to note the circulation of books in the department of fiction suffered the greatest loss and has still further declined until it reaches only 68 per cent of the total. Is this because those who read mainly for amusement are less persistent and interested borrowers than others? The purchases of book for the Library have amounted to 676 volumes, 92 more than last year, and the gifts and bound volumes of magazines number 124 making the increase 800 books. Deducting the missing and worn out volumes we have a total of 30,832 books in the Library ry at this date. In the selection of books your committee has continued in the rather conservative yet liberal method that has been followed with us for so many years. In closing the report some suggestions as to the future seem to offer themselves. We have no accurate method of ascertaining the number of persons who use the Reading Room. It seems to your chairman who is a constant visitor at the Library that there has already been a notable increase in this direction. This is especially the case on Saturday evenings when the Library is kept open until 9 o'clock. The question arises whether it is not desirable to extend the time of closing to that hour for some other days in the week and possibly for all. Of course this will entail more expense for lights and fuel and possibly for service. It seems inevitable however that as time goes on we must spend more money in the administration of the Library and less proportionally in the increase of the number of books.

Again in modern town Libraries every effort is made to interest the citizens individually and personally in whatever the Library contains relating to their callings or pursuits. If these efforts are put forth, they necessarily involve the expenditure of money for clerical work, printing, postage, etc. It will be money well spent if it brings the Library into closer contact with the every day life of our people and makes its influence for good among them more strongly felt.

For the Committee,

J. H. OSGOOD, Chairman.

LYCEUM COMMITTEE.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE OF PEABODY INSTITUTE:

The Lyceum Committee respectfully submit the following report for the season of 1892 and 1893.

The committee has held to the same plan as was adopted by last season's committee, namely, scientific and instructive lectures.

Each lecturer has been greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience, in spite of the inclement weather in many cases.

Following is a list of the lectures, subjects and dates:

Nov. 15, Rev. R. S. McArthur, D. D., Subject, "Columbus, the creator of the hemisphere."

Dec. 1, Col. Geo. W. Bain. Subject, "Among the Masses, or Traits of Human Character."

Dec. 15, H. C. Hovey, D. D. Subject, "Lovely Caverns of Luray and Grottoes of Shendun." (Illustrated.)

Dec. 29, Rev. H. G. Spaulding. Subject, "Our American Italy, Picturesque California." (Illustrated.)

Jan. 5, Mr. Cyrus Weeks. Subject, "Ben Hur." (Illustrated.)

Jan. 12, Rev. A. E. Winship. Subject, "Wit and Wisdom in Travel."

Jan. 19, Rev. J. J. Lewis. Subject, "Through the Canadian Rockies." (Illustrated.)

Jan. 26, George C. Lorimer, L. L. D. Subject, "Travel tide or Americans abroad."

For the Committee,

FRANK E. HOBART, Chairman.

EBEN DALE SUTTON REFERENCE LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE:

The increased income of the Eben Dale Sutton Reference Library for the year ending Jan. 31, 1893, enables the Committee to make a more satisfactory report of their doings than they were able to do one year ago, though there seems to be nothing that requires an extended report.

Miss Augusta F. Daniels continues as Librarian, and has carefully looked after the daily routine of the work.

The Librarian's report, which is herewith submitted, shows a slight increase in the number of consultations. The number is 357, which is an increase of 83 over last year, and 27 over the year before. The number of visitors reported, 913, is small in comparison with former years; it is 277 less than last year. The real value of the Library to the community is to be measured, however, by the number of consultations rather than transient visitors, and it is gratifying to note even a small increase in the former.

The number of bound volumes added during the year is sixty-two, and twenty-one volumes have been bound. Among the most valuable additions is the Century Dictionary in six large volumes. This is believed to be, in many respects, the most complete dictionary of the English language published; and to bring it easily to hand for use, a case has been ordered which includes a holder for each separate volume; this will combine the entire set as a book for ready reference. Other additions worthy of note are the following:—Picturesque California; Medicinal Plants, fully illustrated; the Iconographic Cyclopædia of the Arts and Sciences, revised and brought to date; the International Cyclopædia, fifteen volumes, and Chambers' Cyclopædia, ten volumes, both lately revised; the Silva of North America, a complete work on our forest trees, in four large volumes; and Appleton's Atlas of Modern Geography. A History of Free Masonry will be of interest to many. The total number of volumes now in the Library is 2942.

It has been deemed wise by the Committee to continue the Illustrated London News, and the volumes necessary to complete the file have been ordered.

This large number of reference books so recently added, together with the rich stores which have accumulated on the shelves with each year's addition, should especially commend this Library to the citizens of the town. A careful examination of the finding list will reveal a collection of books of rare value, and many of them of great interest to the general reader.

For the Committee,

J. K. COLE.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

The report of the Librarian of the Peabody Library for the year closing Feb. 1, 1893 is respectfully submitted.

As the reports of the Trustees and Committee will doubtless state many things which usually are mentioned in the Librarian's report it is unnecessary for him to advert to them, consequently this paper will be little else than a record of statistics for the year, consisting as will appear below of the number of books added to the Library, circulation, and minor expenses, and gifts of bound volumes.
